a bishon, writes: "You may be interested to see that the old staid Christian Knowledge society published my little pamphlet on the lable, which contains the same principles that are elaborated in your treatise. I am indignant at the mis-representations, or, we will hope, the misunderstandings, of some of your critics. Have they, for the first time, THE EMPIRE OF THE SOUTH come across the interpretation of the spaking with tongues which harmonize that book with the epistle to the Corinthiaus? Have they never read-Dean Plumptre's article on the subject in Smith's dictionary of the Bible?

"In a word, the author of 'The Introduction to the Study of Holy Scriptures' has simply stated conclusions which the best learning and the most devont minds have accepted before him.

"I do not myself accept all of them, but that any of them denies or impugns any fundamental doctrine of the faith can only be shown by mutinations or perversions of what the author has said, which are a malignmat as they are unerupulous.

I note the prediction with which you conclude—that Dr. Briggs' ad-vancement to the higher ministry for which he has been recommended will precipitate departures to the church of Rome. This would indeed be unfortunate, for the author of 'The Introduc tion to the Study of the Holy Scriptures' holds letters from eminent Roman Catholic scholars of foremost rank in institutions of learning of foremost dignity expressing warmest appreciation of his contribution to the study of the Bible, and intimating their purpose to make use of it in their classrooms Here again it would seem that a some what larger knowledge would be the safest guide to wise action.

"I need hardly add, after what I have written, that it is my intention to proceed, at the time appointed, to Dr. Briggs' ordination. I am, dear sir, sin-H. C. POTTER."
